the spicy salmon tacos to enjoy a Mexico-meets-Japan experience and then indulge in the octopus poke with just the right amount of wasabi sauce. As if the food and atmosphere weren't enough, there is a wide selection of sake and signature cocktails, including the "Shimokita" style with lychee juice. Before heading out, plan a pit stop at the bar area for one last cocktail and rewind back to the Eighties with a Pac-Man arcade machine match.

ITALIAN CLASSIC

When the summer season kicks off, Paper Moon Giardino is just the right place. Hidden in a stately Milanese palazzo with a garden and a porch, the restaurant offers the best fish dishes, with oysters and raw sea bass to start and clam linguini to follow. Don't miss the chance to try the Paper Spritz cocktail mixing elderflower liquor with Sichuan pepper and ginger beer. Whether for lunch, an aperitivo or a dinner at dusk, Paper Moon Giardino is a great place to unwind, until the moon rises and beyond.

I met people and they found out I was in Italy but they saw I was wearing makeup, were confused because they didn't get it, not understanding you can like two things at the same time. You can serve your country and wear a leather jacket. The world's not gonna stop," said the model of starting her makeup channel on YouTube after joining the military. Today, she has launched its collaboration with the beauty brand, who sat down with WWD to talk about her new makeup line, diversifying Too Faced's Born This Way foundation range and her plans for the future.

ASIAN BUNS AND COCKTAILS

Sipping well-prepared cocktails while eating small appetizers is all the rage, and if you've never tried a bao bun, don't miss Bob, a new cocktail bar and restaurant located in the Isola district. The restaurant has already made a name for itself with one of the biggest selections of bourbon in town, accompanied by traditional Asian steamed bread rolls filled with salmon tartare, pork belly and veggies.
